

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In the present invention, a printed wiring board with an electronic component face-mounted on a circuit board in which the electronic component is provided with a heat
5 radiating plate for conducting heat internally generated, is characterized in that the heat radiating means is face-mounted at a position corresponding to the electronic component on a rear surface of the circuit board.